INTRODUCTION

The vocational training information presented in this directory was collected through the cooperative efforts of the Private Industry Council of San Francisco, Inc. (PIC) and the Labor Market Information Division (LMID) of the State of California Employment Development Department as part of the California Cooperative Occupational Information System. The goal of the directory is to provide basic information about vocational training programs in San Francisco. The information is based upon telephone interviews conducted by the PIC during 1996. This is the second year that the PIC has published the directory.

Scope of the Directory

The San Francisco Vocational Training Directory describes more than ninety public and private schools and community-based organizations that provide vocational training in a variety of fields including:

- Automotive Mechanics
- Computer Networking
- Dental Assisting
- Fashion Design & Illustration
- Travel & Tourism Services

Only those community-based organizations and schools which have been approved by State of California Council for Private Postsecondary and Vocational Education were included in the directory.

How to Use the Directory

Entries in the directory are arranged alphabetically by the names of the community-based organizations/schools and include the addresses and telephone numbers and listings of the programs they offer. If applicable, accreditation and student services information is also provided. Student services may include career counseling, child care, financial aid, and job placement assistance.

Index & Appendix

The Index lists in alphabetical order all of the programs contained in the directory. Included under each program heading is the name of the organization that offers the training and its corresponding page number. In addition, an Appendix lists the accreditation agencies appearing in the directory.
